

LJWL MEMORIES

Finals season is stressful for us all—long days and even longer nights to cover all your classes. During my junior year, my friends and I bunkered down in the media room, or the old Writers' Studio, and cranked out paper after paper together. I will never forget the feeling of being in that room, getting one step closer to graduation with each word written, and surrounding myself with some of the most incredible people I have had the pleasure of knowing. Even though it was only for a moment, that feeling was unforgettable and reminded me of why I was working so hard. I have basically spent my in-person college career in that room in the corner of Bond—tutoring sessions, study groups, Point meetings, project planning, in-between class hangouts—and I don't regret a second of it.

WHAT'S NEXT

I want to take a gap year to hopefully pad out my resume and prepare for grad school! Of course, a few bucket list items can be crossed off: summer study abroad, personal trip to Japan, and visit every state in the US.

HOPE FOR THE FUTURE

Honestly, as cliché as it gets, I hope to be happy. I want to end up with a job I am absolutely obsessed with. As for my plans, I want to attend grad school for Film Studies and see where the wind takes me.
